

NEW RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Subject: TDI Hires Power Systems Powerhouse
Hackettstown, N.J. – November 9, 2007

Transistor Devices, Inc (TDI) is pleased to announce the addition of Lou DeBartelo to its executive management staff as Vice President of Global Sales and Marketing. Mr. DeBartelo brings with him over 25 years experience in general management of electronics companies, the last 15 in the power supply industry. His past positions include CEO of Galaxy Power, CEO of EOS Corp. and President of Artesyn Technologies. His strengths lie in sales and marketing, mergers & acquisitions and strategic planning.

As part of TDI's restructuring, Lou has been tasked with aggressively growing sales and increasing the customer base. His mandate is to increase business to existing customers while developing new account relationships with industry leaders in high-growth emerging markets. Lou will also be focusing on penetrating our core markets including the military, industrial, in-flight entertainment and medical markets. "I am excited to be part of the "New TDI" and look forward to bringing them to a new level of success," said DeBartelo.

Established in 1960, TDI is headquartered in New Jersey, has over 1000 employees and five facilities located throughout the world. TDI offers the broadest range of high technology power conversion products available on the market today. TDI manufactures highly reliable OEM supplies and OEM Integrated Power system solutions that typically include converters (AC/DC, DC/DC or multi-output) combined with batteries and controllers. TDI's products solve customer power issues by delivering engineering solutions incorporating high-level electromechanical and thermal management for OEM systems. TDI's target markets include Computer/Networking, Telecommunications, Military/In-Flight Entertainment, Medical and Industrial markets. For more information about TDI go to www.tdipower.com.
